

Crew Conduct Policy

To perform at its absolute best, from the guest experience to our financial performance, Effy Jewelry must have a work environment that is civil and respectful. This policy will outline the basic standards of personal conduct and behavior while working on ships. All crew members are expected to always understand and follow these basic standards. All crew members will:

- Exhibit the basic virtues of respect, dignity, courtesy, and manners always.
- Recognize and avoid behaviors that other crew members and guests may find offensive.
- Avoid situations that present a potential or actual conflict between their interests and the interests of the Company.
- Follow the Company's philosophy of zero tolerance on harassment, inappropriate guest interaction, alcohol abuse and crime.
- Be personally responsible for a healthy and safe living and working environment.

Discourteous or Disruptive Behavior

Music and TV should be played at a level that does not disturb others. Roller blades, roller skates, skateboards, scooters, bicycles, and similar items may not be utilized onboard (except for mobility aids related to special needs, as approved by the ship's medical staff). Crew members must always demonstrate courtesy and respect common crew spaces and ship facilities.

Curfew

Each ship's management reserves the right to enact curfews on an individual, group, or ship-wide basis if, in the sole judgment of the ship's Captain, such steps become necessary to ensure guest or crew safety.

Dining Areas

Dress Code: Crew members shall always be in proper uniform always including name tags while in guest areas. Colorful hair ties, dangle earrings, and nails inconsistent with uniform guidelines are unacceptable. Crew members must wear shirts with sleeves in crew messes. Crew members should not wear flip flops or sandals in the crew messes.

Health and Environment

Pre-Employment Medical Examinations: Crew members are to undergo Pre-Employment Medical Examinations in accordance with international regulations. All crew members must provide full disclosure of all medical conditions at the time of the examination. The failure to report any past or current medical conditions at the time of examination may result in a denial of medical coverage and other benefits, as well as possible disciplinary action up to and including termination.

Hand Washing

Crew members must wash their hands with soap and warm/hot water after using the restroom and before eating or handling food. Medical experts say this is one of the best ways to prevent illnesses from starting or spreading.

Illnesses and Isolation

Effy Jewelry follows practices and maintains policies that seek to prevent illnesses from affecting others. One of the best ways to prevent the spread of contagious illnesses like gastrointestinal viruses, colds, and flu is to wash your hands thoroughly for at least 20 seconds with soap and warm/hot water after using the restroom and again before eating anything. In the event you experience symptoms that indicate a gastrointestinal illness, such as diarrhea or vomiting, or know of someone experiencing these symptoms, you must advise the medical staff immediately. In addition, some gastrointestinal illnesses remain contagious up to 72 hours or more after symptoms subside; therefore, if you or someone you know experienced such an illness just prior to coming onboard, you must immediately notify the ship's medical staff. This will permit the crew to reduce the chance your illness will spread to others on the ship. Failure to immediately report a contagious illness to the ship's medical staff, or to accurately describe its onset, greatly increases the likelihood the illness will spread to others and is a violation of this Policy. Such a violation could lead to disciplinary action. In a contagious illness, the ship's crew will curtail its spread to others.

Trash/Waste Disposal

Trash should be properly disposed of in containers provided throughout the ship or in wastebaskets provided in each stateroom. Trash or other foreign objects should never be flushed down a toilet and never discarded overboard.

Prohibited Items

Items with Heating Elements or Open Flames, Certain items that generate heat or produce an open flame are not permitted on our ships. This includes clothing irons, hotplates, candles, incense, and any other items that may create a fire hazard or are deemed unsafe by shipboard security. (Curling irons and hair dryers are allowed.)

Banned Food Items

Any food that has been identified by government officials as capable of causing illness or harm if transported or consumed is not permitted onboard.

Drugs or Other Illegal Substances

No illegal drugs or other illegal substances are allowed onboard or during transfers to and from ships, inside terminals, at our ports of call, during shore excursions, or at our private destinations. Illegal drugs or substances will be confiscated, and appropriate action taken, which may include removal from the ship and involvement of appropriate authorities. In addition, foreign governments at ports of call have strict laws that address drug possession. Crew members found in violation of such laws are subject to arrest and prosecution by the foreign jurisdiction (and perhaps U.S. or other authorities as well) and may be prevented from re-boarding the ship.

Weapons, Explosives or Other Dangerous Items

No weapons, explosives, or other items that present a risk of harm to persons or property, are permitted onboard. They will be confiscated, and appropriate action taken.

Safety and Security

Safety and security are everyone's responsibility. Crew members who become aware of unsafe or possibly illegal behavior onboard a ship or at any of the locations at which we conduct business should immediately report this to the ship's Security Staff or other ship management. This may be done via the ship's telephone, or by seeking the assistance of another crew member.

Money Owed by the Crew Member

In some circumstances, crew members may be allowed to charge certain expenses on board. It is expected that such charges will be paid in full before the crew member signs off the ship. If the crew member signs off with a balance owed to the Cruise Line, the crew member will not be eligible to return to work on board until all expenses are paid.

Zero Tolerance Policy on Harassment, Inappropriate Guest Interaction, Alcohol Abuse, and Crime

The Company will not tolerate undesirable behavior, such as harassment, inappropriate guest interaction, testing over the alcohol limits established by the company, and crimes (including but not limited to violence, theft, or illegal drug use). Such behavior will result in the automatic imposition of severe penalties up to and including termination for first offenses.

Harassment

Harassment, as defined for this policy, means verbal or physical conduct that demeans or shows hostility or prejudice toward an individual because of his/her gender, sexual preference, race, religion, color, national origin, age or disability, or that of his/her relatives, friends, or crew members. Harassment creates an intimidating, hostile, or offensive work environment. It can make it difficult for individuals to perform their normal work duties and may hold them back from other job opportunities. Receiving appropriate job performance feedback, counseling, or direction from your supervisor is not considered harassment. If you object to the way the feedback is provided, you may request a review with Human Resources. What Is Sexual Harassment? 'Sexual' harassment is a type of harassment. It means unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors or other verbal, written, or physical conduct of a sexual nature when it is made explicitly or implicitly a term or condition of employment, is used as a basis for employment decisions, unreasonably interferes with an individual's work performance, or creates an offensive work environment. Sexual harassment does not refer to occasional compliments of a socially acceptable nature. It refers to behavior that is not welcome, that is personally offensive (including graphic or sexually explicit emails, posters, photographs, or any other materials that illustrate, imply, or describe acts of a sexual nature), that fails to respect the rights of others, that lowers morale, and/or that interferes with work effectiveness. The following behaviors are examples of sexual harassment and will not be tolerated:

- Derogatory, degrading, and/or offensive comments about someone's gender or sexual orientation. This includes inappropriate emails, jokes, stories, or retelling of experiences.
- Bringing physical objects or materials of a sexual nature into the workplace.
- Using indecent language in the presence of a co-worker.
- Touching co-workers in ways that may be considered 'sexual' or 'inappropriate'.
- Pursuing an intimate relationship with a co-worker who does not reciprocate that interest.

If you feel you are being harassed, you should immediately tell the person harassing you the behavior is unwelcome and must stop. If the harassment does not stop, report the harassment to your supervisor or Human Resources.

Inappropriate Guest Interaction

Our professional relationship with our guests makes it absolutely necessary that we conduct ourselves appropriately at all times. Sexual contact or intimacy with guests is never acceptable. Such contact or intimacy includes, but is not limited to, the following behaviors:

- Having any sexual contact with guests even if guests agree, even off the ship in port.
- Offering sexual favors of any kind to guests.
- Accepting guests' sexual advances.
- Telling jokes, or recounting tales/experiences of a sexual nature.
- Using language that is implicitly or explicitly sexual or offensive.

All these behaviors violate Company policy. If you have sexual contact with guests, you can be dismissed immediately. This policy applies to all crew members when onboard vessels, and in ports of call while the associate is employed by the company. Having sexual relations with minors, sexual assault, and rape are all crimes, punishable by law. All allegations of sexual contact with minors and sexual assault and rape will be investigated and reported to the proper legal authorities and will be prosecuted to the fullest extent allowed by the law. Important Warning: Criminal penalties for alleged sexual misconduct can lead to many years in prison. All crew members must understand that the company has zero tolerance to any form of sexual contact between crew members and guests, on or off the ship, at any time during the guest's cruise vacation. Any such sexual contact will subject the crew member to immediate termination without warning. As part of this policy the company shall also:

- Report all alleged sexual assaults to law enforcement for investigation and prosecution, including those allegations where a victim consented to the sexual encounter, but later claimed the activity was not consensual.
- Fully cooperate fully with law enforcement or other government officials in the criminal investigation and prosecution of all such incidents of the law regardless of where in the world the ship is located.
- Respond to inquiries from any future perspective employer that any crew member terminated for violating this policy, even without criminal charges, is not eligible for rehire.

Crew Members therefore must understand that, because job opportunities in the cruise industry are limited, sexual contact with any guest in violation of company policy will have the likely practical effect of making the crew member ineligible to work for other cruise line employers. Every crew member to whom this policy applies consents to and hereby agrees to be fully bound by these provisions.

Soliciting Gifts from Guests

Effy maintains a zero-tolerance policy regarding soliciting or accepting gifts, money, or any form of gratuity from guests. Crew members are strictly prohibited from asking for or encouraging guests to provide gifts or other personal favors, as this behavior undermines the professionalism and integrity of our team. Any violation of this policy will result in immediate disciplinary action, up to and including termination.

Avoid Problem Situations

The following guidelines are for the protection of you and our guests. These guidelines will be strictly enforced. Following them always will also help keep you safe from charges of assault from guests:

- Never allow guests into your cabin.
- Never allow guests to attend crew member parties.
- Never enter a guest stateroom without proper authorization. There are no exceptions. Any crew member found in a guest stateroom without proper authorization will be dismissed immediately.
- Never use guest elevators unless in the line of duty.
- Never arrange to meet a guest for social reasons outside the ship while in port.

Safe Practices Always treat guests with respect and courtesy. However, you should immediately report sexually aggressive individuals or guests to a member of the management team.

- Always avoid touching guests in ways that may be considered 'sexual' or 'inappropriate'.
- Always avoid contact with guests who are physically aggressive or violent. If a guest becomes violent with you, leave the scene and tell a member of the security staff.

Crime

Effy Jewelry has established a "Zero tolerance Policy on Crime." The policy requires reporting allegations of crimes committed onboard ships to appropriate law enforcement and maritime authorities.

Alcohol

No one under age 21 may possess or consume alcohol during transfers to and from ships, inside terminals, while onboard, or at our private destinations. Crew members under 21 are not allowed to bring alcoholic beverages onboard for consumption or any other purpose and are prohibited from purchasing them from onboard shops or in ports of call. Security may inspect containers (water bottles, soda bottles, mouthwash, luggage, etc.) at any time, and those concealing or attempting to conceal alcohol will be subject to corrective action, as detailed in the Consequences section below. Crew members who violate any alcohol policy, including but not limited to underage drinking; providing alcohol to minor(s); possessing, concealing, or attempting to conceal alcoholic items in their luggage, when boarding, or while onboard; or failing to consume alcohol responsibly, will be considered for discipline up to and including termination under the provisions of this policy.

Onboard Activities

Crew members must avoid participating in unsanctioned onboard crew activities that may be hazardous to their health and that of other employees. Such activities include creating or receiving body art in any form that involves piercing the skin or body (i.e. tattoos, ear piercings, etc.)

Behavior Guidelines

All crew members are required to act professionally and always exude a spirit of hospitality in guest areas. The following guidelines were established to assist our crew members in presenting the best appearance to our guests. These guidelines apply to all crew members on board. Any crew member that violates the behavior guidelines is subject to disciplinary action.

Mobile Phones

No crew member may be using their mobile phone to make or receive a personal call or text in a guest area, even if they are on a break. No crew member may wear headphones while working in a guest area or crew area.

Smoking

Crew members should not smoke in a guest area including on gangways, on the pier while working, and near tenders. Please familiarize yourself with the ships approved smoking areas.
